ATLAS

PRECISION

Featuring our custom made Atlas action made in Ohio with all American metal!

Every part of this rifle is made in America! We use only the best stocks from Bell and Carlson, Stolle Atlas Actions, triggers from Rifle Basix, and barrels from Krieger Barrels, Inc.

The action is a semi-clone of the Remington 700. It features a side bolt release, trigger hanger and level mounting surfaces. The action is made of 416RS and the bolt body is made of 4140 alloy steel. The action is machined to extreme tolerances that only parts manufactured in house can produce. We make our own bolts, mounts, and all parts of the action. The action also features a mechanical plunger style ejector called the "TG" ejector. This ejector will never fail like a spring style ejector. It does not use a spring allowing you to check headspace and seating depth with the ejector installed.

The stock features an all aluminum bedding block with a custom bedding job for accuracy. The stock has an excellent cheek weld for all types of hunting and shooting. We also added a Remington BDL floorplate for easy unloading and convenience.

Tying together this excellent piece of American craft rifles is a Krieger barrel and a hand cut chamber made to competition standards. The rifle also features a recessed flat target crown for absolute precision. With only competition accuracy components put into this rifle, you can be sure that there is nothing lacking in design and function.
